City of Toronto Call to Artists for Expression of Interest (EOI) Permanent Sound-based Artwork / Installation

North York Arts Park, Toronto

PROJECT PROFILE

The North York Arts Park is a small park currently in development in Ward 23 - Willowdale. The park will have an “art of sound” theme and will include a small, architect-designed pavilion with an outdoor performance venue, suitable for multi-disciplinary performances, concerts and readings. The park will feature extensive greenery, quiet contemplative areas, seating, meandering pathways, spaces for temporary exhibits and integrated artwork (described below).

Cultural Services, Parks, Forestry & Recreation, the Councillor's Office, Toronto Arts Council and North York Arts are collaborating on the development of the park located between Princess and Hillcrest Avenues. The design of the new park is led by landscape architects from The Planning Partnership, in consultation with the City of Toronto's project management team. The final park design is anticipated for fall 2014. Park construction is expected to be completed by fall 2015.

The park is in close proximity to the Toronto Centre for the Arts, Mel Lastman Square and three schools for the performing arts, Earl Haig, Claude Watson and Cardinal Carter.

Please Note: A first commissioning process has been undertaken for an artist to work with the park design team to develop an integrated public artwork strategy, which may encompass infrastructure elements such as lighting standards, benches and walkways.
